Taught to overcome adversity from a young age, I did everything within my ability to support my family. Now that my family is in a stable place, I'm ready to begin life for myself. I wish to reach my potential, and to break any limits that I see.

I have always had a passion for technical problem solving and creating functional systems, especially when it comes to digital technology. I am always looking for new ways to advance my skillset so that I can be as useful as I can to whomever may need me
